DANGERS OF "EVERYBODY'S DOING IT"

It is perfectly natural to want to be like other people. This desire is not limited to teen-agers. Small children try to imitate their elders, because they get a favorable response when they do so. We encourage them to pattern their lives after the new—new bodies, new freedoms, new emotions, and often new friends. No wonder they are frequently confused.

Many children of this age are just finding themselves as persons. They are neither adults nor children. But they are in the process of growth. Being acceptable to other members of their group

PLANNING AHEAD

As we think about our study for November, our minds naturally turn to Thanksgiving. We may wish to consider special services for our group and special plans for our homes. In one church one family was asked to write a worship service for each day from Thanksgiving to Christmas.

Thanksgiving would not be complete unless we had ways of sharing with others. Your group may wish to appoint a committee to consider projects for sharing and make a recommendation to the class.

PURPOSE

The purpose of this study is to broaden and deepen the family's experience of Thanksgiving so that thanksgiving becomes the constant response to the blessings of life and building upon this attitude of thanksgiving, to make families aware of the stewardship of possessions as a channel for expressing thanksgiving.

WHAT IS THANKSGIVING?

The leader might open the discussion by asking, "What does the word 'thanksgiving' mean to you?"

What are the characteristics that distinguish man from other forms of life? Are we thankful for them?

What can a true spirit be? What is the meaning of "pay our debt to the past to ourselves"?

Mrs. Kennan has written titled "Some Things Feel" describe the way in which we express gratitude.

What is thanksgiving? being so grateful for God's material and spiritual, that we are appreciative of others we best express of Homebuilders--

We held our first general meeting September 23. There were forty women present. After dessert and a get-acquainted hour, a playlet was presented by the cabinet members, entitled, "The Call".

We are organized into four circles, three evening circles and one afternoon circle. The meetings are held in homes on the second Tuesday of each month. The lesson material used is from The Christian Home Magazine.

Aid Service--

The women meet on each Wednesday for aid service. They do quilting, and mend clothing for relief. There is also an arts and crafts program for two hours in the morning. This program is co-sponsored by the church and Y.W.C.A. There is a covered dish luncheon at noon.

SUGGESTIONS FOR USE

This material is prepared so that it may serve as a guide for the use of the magazine in either class groups at the church or in the home. While the directions are given with a group in mind, any individual can make a continuous study on four different days. It is hoped that this study will give unity and provoke thought as one uses this issue.

The study guide is divided into four sections with the thought that adult groups on Sunday morning or those meeting at some other time during the week might study one phase of the topic each week. Of course, there is bound to be some overlapping, but this need not worry the interested student. He will discuss those topics that seem at the time to be most important.

"Christmas for Elizabeth," a story by Claire Jones, page 4.

"Christmas Through New Eyes," a story by Anna Margaret Whitworth, page 45.

"What Can I Be at Christmas?" by Josephine Stone Breeding, page 12.

"What does Christmas mean to you?" you might ask your group. You will get a variety of replies. To some it will mean work—shopping, cooking, company, big meals, entertaining. To others it will mean decorations, gifts, Santa Claus, and traditions. To the more religious it will mean the Christ child, pageants, church services, or reading the Christmas story in the home. A good listing of what Christmas may mean will be found in the Gateses' article on page 1.

To how many does Christmas mean preparation throughout the entire year? Is there a difference in the methods of celebrating Christmas in the homes of those who come from rural background and those who come from city homes? Not many people today can go out and select their own Christmas tree in the woods as the Gateses have done. Can there be just as much interest for the children in selecting a tree at the store? Discuss their statement, "Working, sharing together, laughing and singing, praying and reading—these make the warmth and the joy, the wonderful glow that only Christmas can bring."

Why do some people dread Christmas because once it brought them great happiness? Ask a member of the group to tell the story "Christmas for Elizabeth," page 4, of how a little girl brought two people a realization that Christmas does not die because a loved one is killed.

Anna Margaret Whitworth's story on page 45 tells about a minister's wife finding a new vision of the joys of sharing. This is another good story to have someone review for the group. Following this story you may want to ask the group to share their experiences that would indicate that "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

Close with the thought "What Can I Be at Christmas?" as suggested by Josephine Stone Breeding, page 12.

You may wish to announce your plans for next week.

"If, with all your hearts, ye truly seek me, ye shall ever surely find me." — Mendelssohn's Elijah

"Come to me, all who labor and are heavy-laden, and I will give you rest." — Matthew 11:28

Come, ye peoples of this troubled world with hearts bowed down with fear and anxiety. Let us go together before our Heavenly Father to ask for His guidance in the paths of peace, in the name of our Savior and Redeemer. Since He has said, "Seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you," we shall knock at the doors of heaven, confident they will be opened for our prayers to ascend to thy throne of God.

On the World Day of Prayer, February 13, may our prayers follow the sun and encircle the globe. May they penetrate the farthest reaches of infinity, blessing all humanity now and throughout eternity.

STUDY GUIDE for PARENTS

THEME: How to Face Family Crises

- "Scrimp and Grow," by Frances Dunlap Heron, page 16.
- "The Yellow Chicken," by Inez Brasier, page 19.
- "When Death Comes to Your Family," by Albert Dale Hagler, page 26.
- "This Thing Called Death," by Helen Knoss, page 29.

SUGGESTIONS FOR USE

The discussion for this month centers around four family crises—illness, the new baby, finances, and death. Members of the group will have experiences in these areas and others which they may be called upon to share. This study will be most practical if the discussion centers around the problems of the group instead of considering only the crises mentioned here. These are typical. Every family has some contact with them at some time or other. These articles should be practical springboards from which the group can get at the real problems of their members.

As you begin your preparation for this month's study, read rapidly through the articles listed under "Resources" below. How many of these should you assign to other members of the group for class reports? You might ask three members of the class or group to interview two persons each and ask them to name the most important problem he or she has had to meet during the last year. This would give you a practical list of problems against which to check the problems of members of the group.

You might begin your discussion with a report from these interviewers, listing the problems on the board, and adding others suggested by your own members. This is the kind of discussion which could have publicity value for your class. After your first session you might ask one member of your group to write a newspaper story about the problems you intend to discuss in the three weeks ahead. Other persons in the community will be interested in the fact that you are tackling these problems and a few new members may be attracted to your group because of interest in these subjects. It is always good to let the community know that the church groups are concerned about family problems of this nature.

ILLNESS STRIKES US ALL

Most families have illness sometime or other. Some are very healthy, rarely have colds, and may go for years without any major sickness. Sooner or later, however, someone gets sick. How will you meet that problem? Or would you prefer to put off thinking about it until the time comes? Mrs. Cottrell in the first article in this issue suggests that illness is a normal part of the fabric of living. Discuss her statement, "Life must be built to include both happiness and trouble, sickness and health."

Ask the members of your group to tell how they have met the problem of sickness. How do you explain a serious illness to a young child without upsetting his sense of security?

Most of us pray when our loved ones are sick. Does a prayer like that on page 1, "And please, God, make my daddy well again," imply that God made daddy sick in the first place? How did the mother clarify the child's thinking about this?

Some persons try to prepare for emergencies by adding the words, "Thy will be done" or "If it be thy will." Discuss ways in which this may help a child, and the possibility of a child feeling that this illness might be the will of God for her father.

Does God ever send illness as a punishment for our sins?

Mrs. Cottrell's article emphasizes the importance of understanding as a background for the acceptance of illness, and the adoption of a positive program. Discuss the importance of the patient having a will to live. Is it just as important for others in the household to have a will to adjust and help? How can one give strength to others?

What are the values in reading the Bible during illness? What help can Christians expect to find there? What passages would be helpful?

Katherine Reeves's article on page 4 and Esther Middlewood's on page 11 point up the problems in the home when mental illness is discovered. Remind the class that in the April issue mental and emotional health will be more fully covered. Stress the fact here that mental illness is a real illness and should be accepted and treated as other illnesses. Middlewood brings this out very clearly in her article. She works with mental illness and helps families adjust to the facts. One member in your group might report on ways a family can help a mental patient gain confidence.

STUDY GUIDE for PARENTS

THEME: Christian Observance of Holy Days

Lent has begun, and we are conscious that we are approaching the most sacred days in the life of the church. On Good Friday and Easter we observe the Crucifixion and Resurrection of our Lord, days that have had unusual significance in the lives of the followers of Jesus. This unit is broader than the observance of these days, although they include these important observances. The theme for this month is "The Christian Observance of Holy Days." Several articles in this issue relate to the theme.

The suggestions for discussion are divided into five sections for the benefit of those who use this material in Sunday morning parents groups. Those who use THE CHRISTIAN HOME for discussion groups that will have less than five sessions this month will want to combine sections as seems most convenient to them.

- "Special Observances at Home," by Richard E. Lentz, page 1.
- "Significance of the Lenten Period," by C. A. Bowen, page 4.
- "Our Children and the Meaning of Good Friday and Easter," by Muriel M. Gessner, page 10.

HOLIDAY OR HOLY DAY?

These words come from the same root, a word meaning "whole," and may have originally referred to the spiritually whole person as holy. Today there is considerable difference between our holidays and our holy days. Originally the holy day was a time of celebration, cessation from work, observed by both worship and play. In our more secular culture the emphasis has been placed on the recreational aspects of the days instead of on their religious significance.

Considerable emphasis has been made in recent years on "Keeping Christ in Christmas" and keeping that day, which is essentially a religious day, from becoming only a holiday. There seems to be less danger of commercializing Easter, but our emphasis upon clothes, flowers, and greeting cards can detract from the spiritual joy that comes from contemplation of the religious significance of that day.

As you approach this unit of study with your group, you might discuss such questions as:

1. What makes a holiday a holy day?
2. Discuss the significance of Mrs. Gebhard's statement: "But how often we return to the working day feeling flat and depressed rather than refreshed and inspired!"
3. What is the purpose of a holiday, of a holy day?
4. List the holidays we celebrate. What is the religious significance of each?
5. How many of our holidays have their origin in the Bible?
6. Can you think of Bible verses that are related to the significance of each holiday?

Read and consider the four suggestions given by Mrs. Gebhard at the close of her article, "Highlight the Holy Days," on page 14.

DO PROTESTANTS OBSERVE LENT?

A woman came over to her preacher who was eating at a neighboring table in the restaurant and said, "I am so glad to see that you are eating meat during Lent. My friend and I were having a discussion about the Protestant observance of Lent, when you came in and settled it for us. Now I can eat meat with a clear conscience."

The Roman Catholic Church has many fast days and days when they eat only certain foods. These customs grew up in earlier days when great value was placed upon self-denial and living the simple life. During the Reformation many churches turned away from these formal observances because they were Roman Catholic. Some Protestant groups do stress self-denial today, and many individuals give up candy, smoking, or drinking alcoholic beverages for Lent as a religious exercise. Often it is a denial that might be good for us all of the year, but it strengthens our self-respect to feel we have made the denial for even six weeks.

Discuss Dr. Bowen's statement, "The purpose of Lent was to allow the discipline of self-crucifixion to reign over life."

We Americans tend to neglect or gloss over anything that seems to be unpleasant, and for that reason have not placed much importance on the observance of Lent in our homes. Dr. Bowen tells us, "Any dread of this observance can be removed when it is dealt with in its positive aspects." What does he mean?

Protestants have missed some of the values of the Lenten season by not catching the spirit of self-

STUDY GUIDE for PARENTS

THEME: Mental and Emotional Health

Visit a mental hospital and talk with some member of the staff. If it is not possible for the entire group to go, send a small committee that can report back to the group.

Check the county and state statistics on mental health. The fact that there seems to be an increase in the number of cases over a few years ago may not mean that so many people are mentally disturbed. It may reflect a larger population, or the fact that mental illness is more readily discovered and more naturally accepted than formerly.

Write to your state or county department of mental health for a list of the pamphlets and motion pictures available about mental health. Some states are very generous about sending materials in this area because they are eager to help their people understand the present situation.

Ask three members of the group to read the articles by Linzer, Klink, and Staples for reporting to the others.

This month's study will try to show that good mental health is normal and desirable. Poor mental health is not unusual. It is a health problem and should be treated as such, accepted by family and friends just as any other illness. Good emotional balance is a part of mental health. Through interpersonal relations in the home, stability is fostered and strengthened.

WHY THIS PROBLEM?

It is only a few years ago that mental illness was considered incurable and institutions for the mentally ill were so poorly built and so inadequately staffed that there was little hope that one who entered such an institution would ever come out restored to health. Those who did show any signs of improvement were needed to care for the more violent and were rarely released. Their families frequently thought of them as dead. They tried to forget them.

Within twenty years this attitude has changed. The reasons for this change of attitude will be found in Dr. Linzer's article on page 1. You may wish to raise such problems as the following with your group:

What effect has the Mental Health Act of 1946 had upon the treatment of mental illness? What effect has it had on your county or state?

Why is your minister concerned about mental health? Dr. Klink, who wrote the article on page 5, has written a pamphlet entitled *The Clergyman's Guide to Recognizing Serious Mental Illness which has had wide distribution to ministers.

What are some of the ways in which the church can help with this problem?

Discuss Dr. Linzer's statement that "a child's early life experiences mirror much of what he will be like as an adult." Where, then, is a parent's responsibility for the future?

In your discussion, stress the positive side. What makes a mentally healthy individual?

How can we understand mental illness?

Remind the group that when we read a list like the

BEGINNING THIS STUDY

There are many resources in this magazine for this month's study, because almost every aspect of family living is related to mental health. Husband-wife relationships, parent-child understanding, the family's use of money, discipline, three generation family problems, of worship, prayer, beliefs, and even physical health are all a part of good emotional and mental health. In this month's discussion, however, you will try not only to help the members of your group see that these problems are all related, you will try to help them understand those difficulties that do arise to disturb the mental and emotional life of people, and to accept them as illnesses.

While most of your study and preparation will be concerned with this magazine, you may wish to add local interest to this month's study by suggesting some of the following projects:

Our Representative to UNITED CHURCH WOMEN, Beth Reinecker reports. Gladys Naylor, Lucille Clannin, Pearl Metsker and Beth Reinecker attended the United Church Women's Tea given for pastor's wives and president of local Women's Groups, July 21, at Mountair Christian Church.

A panel composed of members of various denominations discussed phases of United Church Women's work and what they were doing in their own churches.

Dr. Halleck of the American Leprosy Mission gave an interesting talk on leprosy work. He reported that $40.00 yearly would support a child with leprosy, and $50.00 an adult. He stressed "Protestantism United in Action".

This issue of THE CHRISTIAN HOME centers around the theme "We Must Let Our Children Grow." Some notion pictures are suggested as resources for use with each section of this unit. Of course, they will have to be ordered in advance, as far ahead as possible.

Children seem to be more teachable at some times than at others. One professor makes a great deal of the fact that children seem ready to learn certain things at particular ages or stages of growth which he calls "the teachable moment." How can parents be alert to find this best time for teaching?

Should young people always raise the question How much does it pay? Where do they get the idea that money is so important? Discuss money and the security that people think it brings. Then discuss status. May this also be the reason people want money? In some communities the teacher still has status, even though he or she may not have much

For Christmas the Women's Circles dressed six Navajo Indian children in new outfits. A thank you to REV. EDWARD DUNCAN for delivering them for us....

Dear Friends of the Prince of Peace Church:

I want to thank you for the gifts which you sent for some of our school children. The things were beautiful! We gave the packages to the pupils the evening before our school program. I wish all of you could have seen the happy faces the next day. Each child was wearing his new clothes. How nice everyone looked. If you could have been here, you would have felt amply repaid for all your efforts.

The toys were also appreciated. The Navajo children have so few things with which to play, that a new game or toy is something to treasure.

Operation K-N-O-W

- Purpose
1. To give opportunity to discuss together subjects of great interest to all Church Women.
 2. To draw women interested in these common problems closer together in the Christian fellowship which transcends our denominational differences.
 3. To create a channel through which the concerns of Church Women can more easily result in United Christian witness.

Plan

16 Divisions of the women in the Denver Area churches with a Co-ordinator, a woman to make contacts with the women of each church in the Division. secure meeting place, time and make all physical arrangements. schedule of meeting and make arrangements for group baby-sitting.

Meetings will be held in each Division monthly except in months of the big area United Church Women meetings. Division meetings will be held in February, March, April, June, September, October.

Four conversation groups will be held in each Division as far as possible one each on subjects chosen by the Commissions of U.C.W. The subjects are: Christian World Relations, Christian Social (The subjects for our first presentations are to be Peace, Capital Punishment and Ecumenicity.) The leaders of these conversation groups will be selected and trained by the Commissions.

Each church in a Division is invited to send as many women as possible to these conversation groups. In order to know what is going on in the four conversation groups in a Division a church will need to have four women to share in these groups each time they meet.

Division Meetings to begin last of January or first of February

FOR ALL WOMEN OF ALL CHURCHES WHO ARE INTERESTED!

OPERATION "KNOW"

This issue of THE CHRISTIAN HOME is different from others. Generally the focus is on children, and while many of the articles deal with them, the general direction of the study for this month is upon the parents. It is our purpose to study to think about peace of mind, how to seek it, and how few attain it. It is set out in this issue in several articles. One attains peace of mind by searching for the product of life achieved by those who have according to the purpose of God for their lives. One can only find this purpose for himself.

- "The Christian's Inner Peace," by Robert Caspar Lintner, page 2.
- "Give and Live," by Frances Dunlap Heron, page 5.

WHAT ARE WE SEEKING?

As a leader, you may wish to pause a minute and ask, "What do I want to happen in this meeting?" You may decide, "It's not what I want, but what should happen as a result of this study?" Some of you may decide that the main purpose is to bring information and you will lecture, or use charts or graphs, or word pictures to convey your ideas to the group. Others may decide that the most important thing that could happen to your group would be for them to do some thinking about peace of mind. How, then, can you best stimulate the thinking of the group?

Provocative questions may be the answer, whether you give the answers or let the group discuss the available on this subject and invite selected members to read and share them with the group. Many of these may not have the Christian point of view, but this fact may be brought out in the class.

In the first session you will not have time to do much more than bring out the purposes of this unit, using such questions as:

What do you want to discover as we study this topic?

What does the topic "Peace of Mind" mean to you?

Why are so many people talking about religion these days?

Is wholeness of life important? (See the Bach article on page 26.)

Can you find peace of mind by trying out various religions, or in your own church? (See the Bach article.)

Relate the incident of the Indian. (See the Bach article.)

HOW FIND PEACE OF MIND?

The big question that the members of your group will be eager to get at will be "How do we get it?" When it comes up, face it frankly. You may get more discussion if you turn the answer back and ask, "How do you think it is attainable?" Those who have read this issue will certainly come back with the reply, "You cannot get it by seeking it." On the other hand you are not likely to achieve peace of mind without making some effort to understand the meaning of the term and the possibilities of finding it.

Some will want to search in the Bible. They will not find the answer by starting at Genesis and read-

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES OF DENVER

March 24, 1960

Mrs. Pearl Metsker, President
Woman's Organization,
921 So. Ames,
Denver, Colorado.

Dear Mrs. Metsker:

As you perhaps know, a Goodwill Bag Dispenser has been placed in your church.

Your Minister has given me your name as President of your Woman's organization. We are asking you to appoint a woman to act as a "Contact Woman" to call me when the Bag Dispenser needs filling. The filled bags are not returned to the church, but are taken to one of our Collection Booths.

We now have nearly 100 Collection Booths located in Shopping Centers, King Soopers, and Safeway Stores. We could not place the Bag Dispensers with the Booths because of vandalism; and since the bags do cost money, there would be too much waste.

The ministers and their official boards of the various denominations believe the Bag Dispenser to be an excellent idea, and have consented to place them in their churches. If during the year your "Contact Woman" can report that 500 Bags have gone out from your church, then you may be reasonably sure that you have made possible the employment of one Handicapped Person for a whole year in our Goodwill Industries.

Fifty Bag Dispensers have been placed in fifty of our leading churches, and I am anxious to have the names of the Contact Women at once, as we are planning a Complimentary Luncheon for them here at Goodwill so that they may become acquainted with what we are doing for the Handicapped Men and Women in this area. One hundred more dispensers will be placed in the near future.

We are glad that your minister, your church, and you are interested in doing something for our Handicapped Men and Women. Will you please return the enclosed card as soon as possible so that your Contact Woman can attend the Luncheon.

Sincerely,
LaVerne Franks

STUDY GUIDE for PARENTS

THEME: Answering Children's Questions

Children have always asked questions. Some ask more than others, depending upon whether or not they have been encouraged to ask questions by their parents and teachers. They have so much to learn. It is frustrating to be denied knowledge by a busy parent who replies, "Run along, now. I'm busy."

1. "The Persistent Question Mark," by Anna Laura Gebhard, page 2.
2. "So Early in the Morning of Life," by Jessie Eleanor Moore, page 14.
3. "Can You Answer Your Child's Question?" by Frank and Leslie Wier, page 27.
4. "We Believe in God," by Carrie Lou Goddard, page 5.
5. "When Children Ask Questions About Jesus," by Edward C. Peterson, page 11.
6. "An Expanding Universe and an Expanding Faith," by Charles M. Laymon, page 24.
7. "When Disasters Occur," by Harold and Alma Sheridan, page 18.
8. "How to Interpret Death to a Child," by Lorenz Boyd, page 37.

QUESTIONS ARE IMPORTANT

ARTICLES FOR STUDY: Numbers 1, 2, 3 in Resources. Begin the discussion of this session with the quotation from Thomas Edison on page 2. After a few remarks about the importance of children's questions, ask this question: What questions have you found most difficult to answer? List them on a blackboard, or on a large piece of paper so that you can refer to these questions and come back to them. Questions may fall into several general categories: (1) How things work, nature, biology, and Jesus; (2) death and disaster; (3) death and disaster; (4) sex and personality problems.

You may want to add other categories to these so that you can take up about a fourth each week. If you feel the need to spend more time on some of the questions than others, feel free to do so even though it may take more than

These questions are important to the parent.

How early do questions begin? Mrs. Gebhard suggests in her article on page 2 that the stretching of a baby in his crib are his first questions. He finds the answer in his mother's arms.

Why do some children ask more questions than others? Are they seeking attention? Mrs. Gebhard suggests that children want to know, "Do you love me?"

How can parents learn from their children's questions?

QUESTIONS ABOUT GOD AND JESUS

ARTICLES FOR STUDY: Numbers 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

Do we have difficulty answering children's questions about God and Jesus because we cannot interpret these ideas in language children can understand, or is it because we have not answered these questions for ourselves? It may be there are some questions about the nature of God that we cannot answer. Persons have been engaged in the search for these answers for thousands of years. Theologians have disagreed about these questions. Why should parents be upset, then, because there does not seem to be a pat answer?

Help the group see that it is not the way we answer one question about God, but the total teaching of our children which is important. No two children are alike. Miss Goddard, in her article beginning on page 5, reminds us, "Once we understand and accept this we see religious growth as a slow process beginning in the lives of the parents before the child is born and continuing for the duration of life itself."

Ask one person to review the Goddard article, beginning on page 5, another person to review the Peterson article, beginning on page 11, and another person to review the Laymon article, beginning on page 24. Then raise such questions as:

Where does God come from? Can we admit we do not know?

Is it fair to answer a question by asking, "What do you think?" The child's answer may help the parent.

IS MONEY A PROBLEM?

RESOURCES: Articles on pages 2 and 4 and the story on page 45.

Why should we bother with a discussion of the family and its use of money in this day when everyone seems to have plenty of money? Ethlyne and Edward Staples give some of the reasons in their article beginning on page 4.

The leader might begin the discussion this month by telling the story "A Matter of Vision." Many of the group will be able to identify with the situation. No matter whether you live on a small or a large income, the probability is that there are times when you feel "pinched."

Read Dr. Bowen's article beginning on page 2. Does this summarize the importance of money to our family life? Who determines whether we use money or allow money to use us? You may wish to return to Dr. Bowen's article at the close of the discussion on money to see whether or not you feel the same way about it that you do now.

Read Paul's words quoted by Dr. Bowen from 1 Timothy 6: 6, 8-10. Ask the group, "Why is money the root of all evil?" They will mention that it is not money but the love of money which Paul calls the root of all evils. Bring out this distinction. Don't we all love money? Is it a matter of putting first things first?

MONEY AND SECURITY

RESOURCES: Articles on pages 11, 22, 28, and 31.

Is it wrong to want security for your family? Should everyone plan for a rainy day? At a later time we will discuss the values of saving, but how can parents best provide for the security of their children? Is money the only criterion? Does a large insurance policy enable a man to sleep better, knowing that his family will be provided for in case of his death? Money alone will not provide happiness, yet most of us want to make some provision for future emergencies.

You may wish to spend some time on the discussion of insurance as a means of providing security. Dr. Duvall's article on page 11 is a most practical one.

Another way of achieving security in this generation has been for the wife to work. Sometimes this is necessary. In many cases it is simply a way of providing extra income for the luxuries middle-class families believe they must have today. Mrs. Gates's article points out that the salary of the working mother is not all gain. She sees the values in part-time work. This may be a solution for many women, but some will have difficulties.

PURPOSE OF AN ADULT DISCUSSION GROUP

Why do we bring parents together to discuss these materials in THE CHRISTIAN HOME?

Some would say that we have a parents class for fellowship and would offer as proof the fact that there are always more people present when the class has a party than are present on Sunday morning. Fellowship is important. Every session should provide a sense of belonging. Let no one feel like a stranger in your group.

Another purpose might be to help parents understand their children. Most parents feel the need for such understanding. Although we realize that perfect understanding may never be achieved, we know that the sharing of experiences, the discussion of the opinion of an authority, and the study of facts revealed by research on other children may help parents be better parents.

FOR CLASSES, GROUPS, OR IND

THEME: Relationships in the Home

A third purpose is to help the parent grow. He or she should be a better person because of this fellowship with other Christians. He will grow in understanding of the way God works in the world and come to see more clearly the purpose of his existence. He should also grow in skill in living with other people at home and in the community. Learning must be related to needs. The leader will want to spend some time thinking about the individual needs of his group so that he can adequately relate the material in this magazine to the needs of the members of his group. How can he better motivate his group to study and grow?

RELATIONSHIPS ARE IMPORTANT

Begin this unit by asking the group, "What does the word relationships mean to you?" To some it may mean family struggles, arguments, conflicts. Others will think of happy experiences together in the home. Dr. Reuel Howe in his article beginning on page 2, recognizes that family relationships "have a power to hurt as well as a power to heal."

One way to stimulate discussion in this session would be to ask four of the members of the group to role play a family situation, such as "Getting ready for church" or "Who's going to wash the dishes?" or "Henry won't let me play with him." Portray the way in which the parents handled the situation and then discuss the family relationships involved. Ask such questions as "Did the parents show understanding?" "Did they reveal their love for their child?" "What about the effect upon other children present?" Lead to a discussion of the basic problem "Why is love important in family relationships?"

Why does Dr. Howe think that it is necessary for a person to feel that he is loved? Is this any more important for children than for adults? What happens to home life when husband and wife no longer love each other?

Bring out the importance of people knowing that they are loved. Many parents who say they love their children do not seem to be able to communicate that love to their children or to each other. Ask the group to discuss Dr. Howe's statement "Love is action, and love does not open its full meaning to us until we are able to love." As a child begins to love, what is our responsibility as parents? Ask for examples in which parents have misunderstood their children's attempts to Another aspect in love Howe when he suggests a for withdrawal from family himself. What should be these occasions?

STUDY GUIDE for PARENTS

THEME: Christmas Comes With . . .

The discussion for this month centers around the ways families observe Christmas in the home. It has been divided into four sections, corresponding to the four Sundays of December, but many groups using this material on Sunday morning will have to make adaptations of the material because their group may be involved in other activities of the church school and will meet only two or three times in December. In planning your use of the material, be certain that you do not omit the last section, as this pulls together the discussion for the month and points up the religious significance of the observance of Christmas.

PREPARATION FOR CHRISTMAS

Many families have already begun their preparation for Christmas. Several of the articles in this issue have suggested that Advent special Christmas services be held at the end of November or the to display their Christmas stocks and the spirit of the holiday season fills the air. Whether it will be a holy season or not will depend upon the spirit of families. If yours is a Christian family, or even one striving to be Christian, the attention will focus upon the eternal values of the birthday of Christ.

The word Advent comes from a Latin word meaning coming. It refers to the days in which we anticipate the coming of Christ into the world. In the early Christian centuries the Advent season covered five weeks, but since the fifth century it has generally been observed in the church during the period beginning the fourth Sunday before Christmas. Because Christmas comes on Sunday this year, five full weeks are included. Other years Advent would be a shorter period. If any families in your group observe Advent with services in the home, they might be willing to help others begin this custom by giving suggestions and comments about their experiences.

This first session or possibly the second, if you have not had time to prepare for it, might be an hour in which the members of your group share family preparation for Christmas. Give the members a little warning so they can come prepared to share traditions, stories, favorite hymns, and recipes. Each person might be asked to write out a favorite recipe and make enough copies so each member of the class can have one. If your class is large, it might be simpler for each person to bring one copy and tell about it and have a committee mimeograph copies of all the recipes. This might be made in small booklet form with one on a page, or separate sections for cookies, candies, desserts, salads, and so forth.

There are some practical suggestions in the article by Mrs. Gates, page 2. Discuss her idea for getting the whole family together early to plan for the Christmas observances. She suggests that preparation and anticipation are half the fun.

The Alford article beginning on page 10 reminds us of the importance of Christmas music. Whether or not one can sing or play an instrument, there is much beauty to be discovered in excellent recordings are mentioned. Possibly the class could purchase a recording and exchange one for members of the group at Christmas. Or each family might purchase one recording and exchange it.

Mrs. Couch has given us many suggestions for family worship during the Advent season. See page 6. Advent services for the Christmas have been growing. Mrs. Couch gives us one service for Advent which might be adapted by changing the prayers and used each Sunday.

WOMEN IN DECEMBER CIRCLES

Fifty-four women of the Prince of Peace Church attended the December circle meetings. Following discussions on Christmas, the groups sampled homemade candies and cookies and shared recipes. Christmas decorations and gifts made by members were also displayed.

The Spirit of Giving was manifested in the ladies generous gifts of clothing for the Navajo Mission in New Mexico.

ALL TO PRAYER 75th Anniversary of the World Day of Prayer

Friday, February 17, 1961

Come, all whose hearts are moved with thanksgiving for the World Day of Prayer;
 Come to worship the Hope of the world;
 Come to pray that together we may proclaim his gospel;
 Come to witness that his kingdom is everlasting.

PRAYER: Lord Christ, who prayed that all may be one through the might of thy spirit, forgive us that we have not yearned for brotherhood. Forgive our nearsightedness and complacency. Rule in the hearts of all men that we may learn repentance and forgiveness, for we live only in thy forgiveness.

Savior of the world, we pray for eyes open to see thee at work in the events of nations;
 ears sensitive to hear thy call to be peacemakers;
 hands stretched forth to give the treasure held in trust for thee;
 faith steady and unflinching as we seek ways to do thy will;
 For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

Women's Study Monday, March 20

Can your Monday morning wash be early or late so that you can join some friends for coffee and discussion? The place - Mountain View Community Church. The date - Monday, March 20. The time - 9:15 to 11:30 A. M. A nursery is provided, and transportation can be arranged for you. Leader of the group is Mrs. LeRoy Allen. The discussion groups are sponsored by United Church Women of Denver. The purpose of the group is to share one another's viewpoints on the subject THE NATURE OF THE UNITY WE SEEK and to discover common grounds of understanding as well as bring decisive issues into the open with the hope that we will demonstrate greater unity in our community and "unto the uttermost part of the world." Five women from Prince of Peace Church attended the discussion last month; Pearl Metsker, Beth Rein-ecker, Agnes Duncan, Lucile Schweppe and Lucille Clannin. Call any of these ladies if you can join the group next Monday. In addition to the nursery facilities, activities for kindergar-ten and older children will be planned.

MARCH 60-61

STUDY GUIDE for PARENTS

THEME: What Kind of Education for Our Children?

EDUCATION FOR WHAT?

One part of this discussion might well center around the purpose of education. Has the purpose changed? What is different? Begin this discussion by mentioning or discussing the ways in which the world has changed in this generation. Look at the five areas suggested by Rebecca Caudill in the first article. With these as background, she suggests four goals for education. Put these on the blackboard and discuss them one at a time, or ask one member of your group to give his views of each of these four points.

Lorenz Boyd suggests survival as a goal of education. What do you think about this? How does this fit into the Christian ideal, "Whoever would save his life will lose it"?

Mrs. Vernon is a schoolteacher. She sums up the purposes of education in six points. Compare these with those mentioned above. She also stresses the importance of "tool" subjects. Does this seem to be in conflict with the position of Lorenz Boyd? How can we motivate children to want to read? How can we arouse curiosity? Is it not possible to kill interest in finding the answers to questions even before the child starts to school?

Why are some children so much more alert than others when they start their first year at school? These differences are not all heredity. Early attitudes toward learning are very important. If a child is taught at home not to ask questions, he soon gets the impression that the most satisfactory behavior is to keep quiet.

Can children have too many interests, as Mrs. Vernon suggests? What are the values of these extra-curricular activities? What are the disadvantages? How can we have a happy balance?

WHO DETERMINES EDUCATIONAL TRENDS?

After you have discovered some of the desirable directions in which education should move, how do you get your ideas across to the persons who determine what is necessary? In many communities there has been a restudy of the educational program in recent years to include more science in the program. The stress has been placed upon producing a better trained scientific workforce.

As you plan to lead the discussion, think about the persons in your group for a few minutes.

Are they parents of young children? If so, they will need to be alerted to the changes in educational methods which have taken place since they went to school. Some persons may not yet be concerned about the school system in your community or what has been happening in educational philosophy in recent years.

If your group is made up of parents of children who are already in school, they may have faced some of these problems before and will be full of questions. Discuss problems disturbing them.

If your group is made up of older parents, their concern may be for the "good old days." School to them is not like it used to be. Do not allow this discussion to degenerate into a gripe session, but help parents see the changes that are taking place, analyze the values, and draw up a plan of action if it is needed.

STUDY GUIDE for PARENTS

THEME: A Sense of Wonder

The articles in this issue center around the theme "A Sense of Wonder." This may seem a little different from the usual topics in THE CHRISTIAN HOME, but there will be value in stopping to consider those experiences that cause us to have a sense of wonder. We will try to see the ways in which wonder, and a recognition of what is back of that which makes us wonder can help us lead our children to an understanding of the nature of God.

We sometimes use the word "wonder" to mean "to be curious about." In this issue we will use the deeper meaning of the word—"to be filled with reverence or awe."

- "I Wonder As I Wander," by Carrie Lou Goddard, page 2.
- "Wonder We've Shared," by Kathleen Davis, page 5.
- "Wonder Into Wonder," by Katherine Reeves, page 12.
- "Look for the Surprises!" by Anna Laura Gebhard, page 15.
- "God's Gift of Wonder and Worship," by Clarice M. Bowman, page 22.
- "Those Amazing Hands," by Ella Mae Charlton, page 25.
- "Mother's Getting Selfish," by May Richstone, page 28.
- "How to Live With Your In-Laws," by Virginia Stitzenberger, page 30.
- "Dinosaur Tracks and Sea Shells," by Nathaniel F. Forsyth, page 33.
- "Words Are Razors," by Loraine Jarvey, page 37.
- "If You Lead Three Lives," by Emily H. Clark, page 45.

WHAT CAUSES WONDER?

In the first session it might be well to analyze some of the things that cause us to wonder. Ask individual members of your group to report on the articles on pages 2, 5, 15, and 33. They will discover that the because view; a moment of quiet; the first view of a new baby; tadpoles in a jar; the Grand Canyon; a plowed field; the creation of life; the sacrifice of grandparents; the wonder of growth; a crippled boy who whistled; the quiet of the sanctuary; the nesting birds; an appropriate worship service; a bird and a blossom; watching flowers and vegetables grow; studying fossils; the sunset.

Ask the members of your group to add other experiences that have caused a sense of wonder.

The article on page 12 suggests a different kind of wonder, the wonder of the existence of life.

Why is it that at some times we feel so much more alive and eager to live than at other times?

How did the dream strengthen this woman's desire to live? Since this is an unusual experience, are there other ways through which we can attain the sense of wonder at the glory of life?

Discuss the statement "... if we knew in every thread of our being what it meant to be alive, we would be giving every ounce of our knowledge and love to the business of creating life that is friendly to fellow life."

How can we help our children achieve this sense of the wonder of life? Can pets help? What about our attitude toward younger children in the family and community? How early can we teach this idea?

How can parents know when they are achieving a balance between the attitudes expressed in the two families described by Katherine Reeves near the end of her article?

CHILDREN HELP US WONDER

Mrs. Gebhard is a minister's busy wife, yet she finds time to explore and enjoy the wonders of nature with her children. In her article beginning on page 15 she relates how her three-year-old daughter called her attention to the glory of the sunset. She says that "the teachableness of spirit depends upon freshness of vision."

- Discuss with your group ways in which parents can be more alert to recognize the beauties of life.

- You might ask members of your group to consider ways parents often kill the wonder in a child's mind by being too busy to look or listen. What should be the relationship between scientific explanations of events and seeing the wonder of creation?

- Will it not be difficult to help children see the divine will back of creation unless we make a definite effort to become aware of it ourselves? It is so easy to miss the purpose in life and beauty. Mrs. Gebhard brings out the importance of discovering the wonders of creation together. We don't find all of the answers. "For every question the test tube, the microscope ... a thousand more ... the values together

CLOTHING DRIVE CLIMAXED BY DEDICATION PROGRAM

The month-long appeal for clothing, was climaxed by a dedication program at the church last Saturday night. The film, “The Long Stride” produced by Church World Service, was shown prior to the Litany of Dedication led by Pastor Eshleman. Donald Ullom spoke briefly about world need and the Christian's response to it. The clothing that was accumulated will be packed in Church World Service Bags by members of the Women's Aid Group and will be taken to Denver's new outlet at 3855 Race Street. The Brethren Service Commission is grateful to all who participated in the needy project.

On Wednesday February 28 following the noon dinner hour at the Prince of Peace Church a film will be shown on United Church Women at work in preparation for World Day of Prayer.

ONE GREAT HOUR OF SHARING

Prince of Peace will unite with some 94,000 congregations in America on Sunday April 1, in One Great Hour of Sharing, an effort to support programs of assistance to the hungry, the homeless, and the destitute.

These offerings undergird the story of Brethren Service in the United States and abroad.

ONE GREAT HOUR OF SHARING

Through the coin boxes distributed to the children and the envelopes enclosed in this newsletter let us all Share next Sunday so the naked of the world will have clothing---the thirsty will have drink---the hungry will have food---the stranger will be offered friendship and those in bondage will be visited.

THE WEISE FAMILY FROM HOLLAND HAVE a DAUGHTER

On August 7, 1961, the Prince of Peace Church met Joop and Coby Weise at the train depot here in Denver. The Brethren Service Commission had made arrangements for us to sponsor and help re-locate this family.

Friday, April 13 they were blessed with a daughter at 2:00 P. M. Her name is Manon Bridgit. The family are fine.

Joop was born in Indonesia, living through the Japanese occupation. In 1949 when that country gained independence the Dutch had to leave. Joop was then 12 years old and his family moved to Holland. Later he met Coby and they were married in the DeHaage, Holland last April.

Coby was born and raised in Holland. During Germany's occupation of her country her father was taken away for seven years and forced to work in a German factory.

Both parents of Coby and Joop have written their appreciation to our church for the help extended. This is both parents first grandchild.

Joop was raised a Roman Catholic and Coby Dutch Reformed. Both are very industrious and conservative. The people at the Prince of Peace Church offer their blessings at this time.

Joop and Coby are living at 1540 South Raritan Street. Joop is employed as an Engineer at the Engineering Consultant Inc.

We are proud of you Mr. and Mrs. Weise, and later when mother and baby are able, feel free to show off the family at church sometime.

Call to Prayer

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER
Friday, March 9, 1962

- COME! Everyone who thirsts, come to the Living water;
- COME! Worship the Lord, hear him speak;
- COME! Persist in prayer, learn his will.

PRAYER

Lord God, who made of one blood the people of all nations, we praise thee for thy love richly given to all. We thank thee for the wealth of past years. Thou knowest us to be set in the perplexities and dangers of today's changing order; help us to abide in thee and thy word in us. Lead us forth from this Day wherever it shall please thee. Help us to follow at whatever the cost.

Father of us all, on this Day and all days, grant that thy greatness fill our emptiness;

thy glory deliver us from our selfish ways;
thy strength replace our weakness;
thy fresh adventures defeat our little fears;
thy call draw us resolutely along the way.

We pray through Him who is Thy love to us. Amen.

WORSHIP SERVICE

One Family Under God: Who Is My Family?

PRELUDE

SILENT MEDITATION

He hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on the face of earth . . . "we are indeed his offspring." Acts 17:26, 28

This is God's answer to our question: "Who is my family?"

Who then is my family? And what is it to care for them?

I, a suburban mother, ask:

I, a lifelong resident of a small town, ask:

I, a Negro professional woman, in the Midwest, ask:

I, a newcomer from a farm, ask:

I, an Indian American, ask:

I, a stranger recently arrived from Syria, ask:

I, a housewife, my children grown, and with leisure time, ask.
